GROWING YOUR SAVINGS

Saving as a platform worker with CPF contributions

As a platform worker, your CPF contributions will be made through your platform operator on a monthly basis. This applies for all platform workers.

DEFINITION

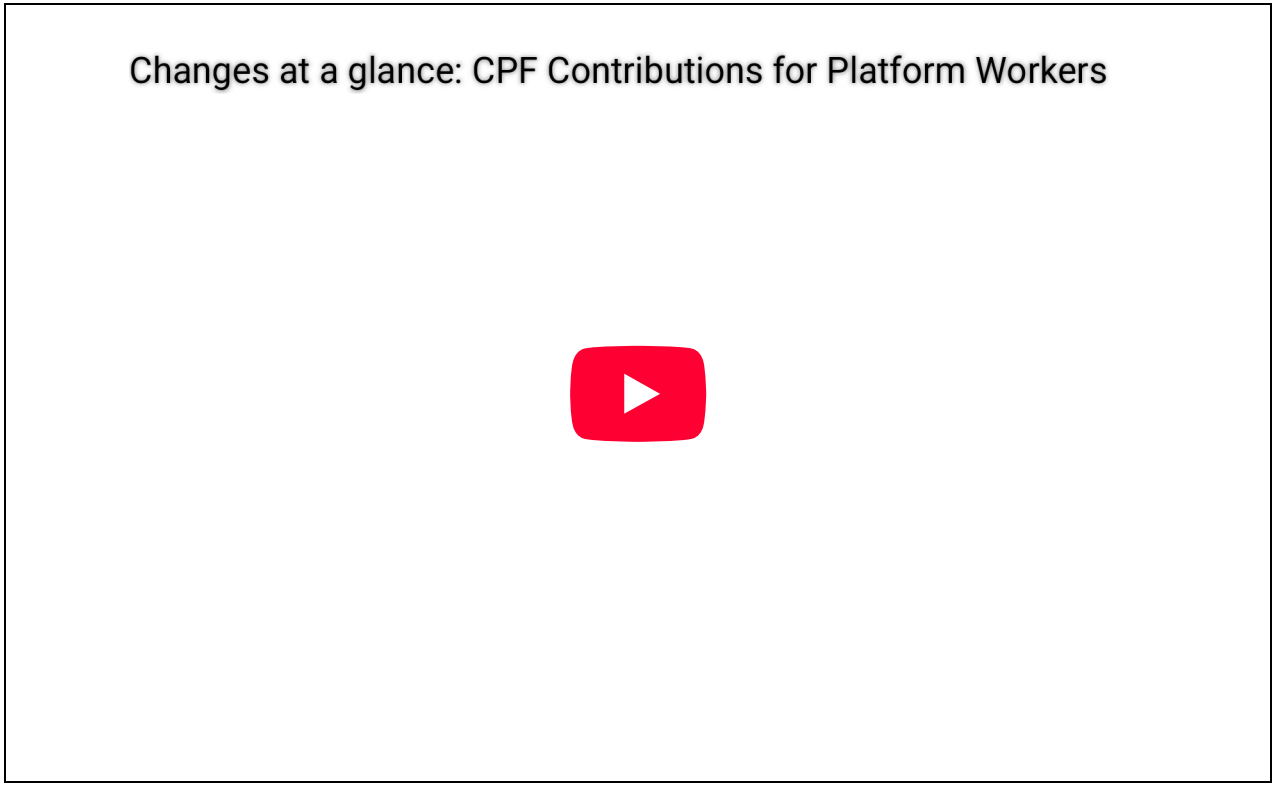
Who is a platform worker?

You are a platform worker (PW) if you

- provide ride-hail or delivery services under a platform work agreement with a Platform Operator (PO), and receive a payment or benefit; and
- are under the management control of the PO when providing the platform service

CHANGES AT A GLANCE:

CPF Contributions for Platform Workers



FOR ALL PLATFORM WORKERS

Your platform operator will deduct your CPF contributions as and when you earn and submit them to CPF Board every month.

For platform workers born on 1 Jan

For platform workers born before 1

1995 or later

- CPF contribution rates for you and platform operators will be gradually increased to match that for employees and employers.
- CPF contributions will go to your Ordinary, Special or Retirement, and MediSave Accounts, based on these allocation rates.
- You will see an increase in total earnings after factoring in additional CPF contributions from platform operators.
- Your platform operator will deduct your share of CPF contributions as and when you earn, and submit it to CPFB monthly, together with the platform operator share of CPF contributions.
- The government will support eligible lower-income platform workers with Platform Workers CPF Transition Support (PCTS) to minimise impact on take-home pay.

HOW MUCH TO CONTRIBUTE

Calculating your CPF contributions

1) Determine your gross earnings

Your CPF contribution will be computed on a monthly basis. All payments related to your platform work will attract CPF contributions. You can view your gross earnings in the earnings slip provided by your platform operators.

Learn more about payments that attract CPF contributions >

2) Compute your net earnings using the Fixed Expense Deduction Amount

Your CPF contribution will be computed based on gross earnings minus the Fixed Expense Deduction Amount (FEDA). The FEDA varies according to the mode of transportation you use for the job.

Apply the respective FEDA to your gross earnings to compute your net earnings.

Mode of Transport	FEDA

mobility devices
Bicycles, on foot (including use of public transport)	20%

Calculate your net earnings using the FEDA:
Net Earnings = Gross Earnings – Fixed Expense Deduction Amount (FEDA)

Learn more about Fixed Expense Deduction Amount >

3) Compute your CPF contributions

Your CPF contribution rate is based on your net earnings, age group and opt-in status.
CPF contributions = Net Earnings * Applicable CPF Contribution rate

CPF contribution rates are lower for older platform workers and those with monthly net earnings below $750.

Use this calculator to compute your CPF contributions

Go to Platform Worker CPF Contribution Calculator >

CPF contributions are computed separately for each platform operator you work with.

You do not need to make any CPF contributions on net earnings exceeding $102,000 in a year per platform operator.

If you are born on or after 1 Jan 1995, or have opted in for increased CPF contributions, your CPF contributions will be allocated to your Ordinary, Special or Retirement, and MediSave accounts. Otherwise, your CPF contributions will go to your MediSave Account only.

Net Earnings: $4000 * (1 – 35%) = $2,600

Platform Operator share: 17%

share: $2,600 * 17% = $442

* It is mandatory for platform workers born in 1995 or later to contribute to their Ordinary, Special or Retirement, and MediSave accounts.

OTHER INCOME

If you are earning other income

Self - employed income

If you derive self-employed income from non-platform work (e.g. tuition teaching, or taxi street-hail jobs), or from platform work prior to 2025, you will still need to contribute to your MediSave account on these sources of income in the following year, after you have declared your net trade income to IRAS.

Employee income

If you are also earning employee income, your employer is still required to make contributions on your employee income to CPF Board every month.

PLATFORM WORKERS CPF TRANSITION SUPPORT

How can the Platform Workers CPF Transition Support help?

The Platform Workers CPF Transition Support (PCTS) will be provided from 2025 to 2028 as the CPF contribution rates for platform workers are gradually increased to align with employees.

PCTS will provide monthly cash support to offset part of the year-on-year increase in contribution rates to platform workers' CPF Ordinary and Special or Retirement Account.

WORKFARE INCOME SUPPLEMENT

Workfare Income Supplement for Platform Workers

Eligible lower-income platform workers will receive Workfare Income Supplement (WIS) payments monthly instead of annually from 2025.

Eligible platform workers who are mandated or opt in to the increased CPF contribution rates will receive higher WIS payments at the same level as employees from 2029, once their CPF contribution rates fully align with that of employees. They will also receive a higher proportion of WIS payments in cash - 40% compared to 10% today.
